Complete possession is proved only by giving. All you are unable to give possesses you.*

-Andre Gide

1. What three things would you say or do if you woke up tomorrow to find you were a person of the opposite sex?

2. If tomorrow you found out that beyond any shadow of a doubt there was no heaven or hell, and that you'd just cease to exist once you died, how would this affect your attitude towards life?

3. Complete this sentence: My life would be so much better if there were no more...

4. If you could be reincarnated as someone you know, who would it be and why?(no choosing "I don't want to be reincarnated"!)

5. If you could have any one specific power over people, what would it be? Is it moral to have power over people?

6. You are leading 100 people whose lives are in danger and you must choose between two courses of action. One would save only 90 people; the other would have a 50 percent chance of saving everyone, but if it were to fail, everyone would die. Which would you choose and why?

7. Anything else?
